I. PURPOSE:

To define the different commitment categories that inmates may be classified to or placed on at the Rhode Island Department of Corrections (RIDOC), and to establish Department-wide standards and procedures for the monitoring and supervision of those inmates.

II. POLICY:

- A. Inmates are classified or placed in the least restrictive status, for the shortest time period possible, while maintaining the safety and security of the institutions for the inmates, staff and community.
- B. Inmates are provided with programming opportunities designed to help them become productive and law-abiding members of the community.

III. DEFINITIONS:

- A. Case Management Team - a collaborative process of assessment, planning and interventions to address an individual's identified needs through communication and coordination of available resources aimed at reducing recidivism.
- B. General Population - Inmates classified to maximum, medium, minimum with no restrictions placed on activities.
- C. Transitional Confinement (formerly Close Confinement) - These inmates are classified to this status to provide them the supervision and programming required to prepare for their return to General Population from Restrictive Housing.
- D. Administrative Restrictive Status (ARS) - Inmates who, by their pattern of conduct require close restrictive movement and closer supervision than general population inmates, will be placed on Administrative Restrictive Status by a Warden/designee. This status can be utilized to transition back into General Population. The Warden/Designee of each facility is responsible for the development of a Standard Operation Procedure (SOP) specific to their facility. The SOP should outline items allowed in cell, out-of-cell time and program requirements.
- E. Restrictive Housing - Any type of detention that involves removal of an inmate from general population, voluntarily or involuntarily; placement in a locked room or cell, whether alone or with another inmate; and the inability to leave the room or cell for the vast majority of the day, typically 22 hours or more. The following are the types of Restrictive Housing utilized at the RIDOC:
1. Administrative Confinement (Sentenced inmates only) - These inmates are classified as such when their pattern of conduct:
 - Demonstrates chronic inability to adjust to the general population;
 - Indicates maximum personal protection is required;
 - Constitutes a serious threat to the Adult Correctional Institutions (ACI);
 - Is potentially dangerous to him/herself or others;
 - Poses a serious escape risk;

- Indicates that an immediate mental health evaluation is necessary, and the inmate cannot remain in general population pending that evaluation; or
- Indicates an enemy issue or has been charged with a highly publicized/particularly heinous act (e.g., high profile murder, sexual assault or murder of a minor), and cannot be held in general population while the investigation into potential placement in Protective Custody is being conducted.

2. Administrative Detention (Awaiting Trial inmates only) - These inmates are placed as such when their pattern of conduct EXCEPTION: Sentenced inmates may be placed in Administrative Detention for investigative purposes only. At the conclusion of the investigation, the sentenced inmate shall return to his/her classification.
